

Marshall Fletcher

Marshall Fletcher is currently the Business Development Director for ALL-STATE LEGAL. He is a past president of the Association of Legal Administrators, an international professional association of more than 11,000 members and was a member of the ALA Vendor Advisory Panel from 2006-2008.

Marshall is a frequent guest speaker at ALA, LMA, and ABA events and has written a number of articles for ALA publications. While in legal administration, he held numerous leadership positions in ALA at the chapter, region, and national level. During that time, he conducted numerous educational seminars and was a guest speaker at more than 75 ALA events.

Marshall has extensive legal industry experience. He was the Director of Corporate Legal Services for Turner Broadcasting System, Inc. in Atlanta for six years. The TBS legal department has over 50 attorneys and about 100 employees in five offices worldwide. Prior to TBS, he was the legal administrator for a civil litigation firm in Atlanta for seven years. Having worked for a private law firm as well as a law firm corporate client, he has a unique perspective on how legal services are (and are not) provided.

In addition to his legal background, he has many years of experience in both manufacturing and service businesses including textile, medical, home services, and hospitality industries.
